UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON
SCHOOL OF NURSING
SEATTLE CAMPUS

COMPLIANCE GUIDELINES

In order to maintain status as a student in good standing all enrolled nursing students must complete and maintain compliance in the following areas:

- Blood Borne Pathogen Training
- Hazards Management Training
- HIPAA Training
- HIV/AIDS Training
- Verified Credentials Background Check (will need to be renewed annually)
- CPR Card (expires every two years and will need to be renewed)
- Immunizations (PPD and influenza vaccine must be kept current annually)
- UW Deskmail Agreement Form
- Social Networking Policy Agreement Form
- Consent to Release Form
- UW Medicine Privacy Agreement Form
- Health Insurance Form

Compliance documents can be submitted to the Academic Services office in room T-301 of the Health Sciences Building or scan and emailed to Anh Shafer (sunshyne@uw.edu), Student Compliance Advisor.

Students need to be copies for their own records as clinical sites may request this information. However, if such copies become misplaced, a request can be made through this website: http://www.son.washington.edu/students/policies/copyrequest.asp.

All students, including those who are not on clinical rotations are expected to maintain compliance.

Students are expected to track their own compliance due dates and update items needing renewal prior to its expiry date. To check compliance status online, students can log onto this website: http://www.son.washington.edu/students/policies/search.asp. To ensure that all students are in compliance and able to participate in clinical educational activities, the Academic Services office monitors compliance and will send out courtesy reminders when they need to update their status, however, the ultimate responsibility lies with the student. The Academic Services office will also notify clinical instructors quarterly regarding the compliance status of all students (whether a student is out of compliance or if a compliance item will expire during the upcoming quarter).

Students who do not respond to notification of non- compliance will have an academic hold placed on their account and may be removed from enrolled clinical course work until they have updated their status appropriately. This may impact the release of financial aid and may result in expanding your program if clinical course work needs to be dropped and rescheduled.
